Exact Text of the Egg Weight Bill

The following is the exact text of the bill introduced in the Senate and Assembly regarding the sale of poultry products:

"An act to regulate the sale of poultry and eggs. The people of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

"Section 1. All poultry produce, tame or from a wild state of nature, must be sold in the state of California by pound weight avoirdupois.

"Section 2. Chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese, guinea fowls, pigeons and pheasants, produced or introduced into the State of California by interstate commerce, shall be sold by, and from the hands of producers, retailers and wholesalers by United States standards of weights and measures avoirdupois.

"Section 3 All eggs of chickens and ducks for consumption produced or introduced by interstate commerce in the State of California, shall be sold or bought by tradesmen and consumers by the pound weight avoirdupois.

"Section 4. Any person or persons or corporations selling any of the articles of food mentioned in this act, contrary to the provisions hereof, shall on conviction be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined for not less than twenty five dollars and not more than fifty dollars.

"Section 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after September fifteenth, 1911.

The Airship as a Military Adjunct

The aviation practice at Selfridge field near San Francisco this past week has resulted in demonstrations of tremendous value as related to the utility of the flying machine as a military adjunct Lieutenant Myron C. Crissy sailing with aviator Parmalee five hundred feet above the peninsula, dropped a bomb with reference to a prescribed spot, hitting his mark almost precisely. The result was what was expected, an explosion which made havoc of the ground upon which it fell. This demonstration is regarded as of the greatest importance. It shows what may be done in the way of assaulting an invading or stationary army from the sky. It is true that in the experiment the height was not great enough to carry the assail ants above the range of gunfire. Nevertheless, it was a result of great significance. It would have been easy, Lieutenant Crissy declares, to have gone higher and even from a much greater height he thinks it would not be difficult, especially after some practice, to discharge bombs with tolerable accuracy.

Another demonstration in line with that already noted was made by Lieutenant John C. Walker, Jr., with a camera. Flying at the rate of forty miles per hour over the aviation field, Lieutenant Walker took photographs recording every condition of the land and water over which the flying machine passed. If this may be done at Selfridge field it may be done anywhere. Thus two men in an aeroplane, one to operate the mechanism and the other to hold a camera, may secure exact information as to the whereabouts, number, and general conditions of an army. Under the eye of a flying camera, no fact in warlike tactics could possibly be concealed.

The results attained this week were experimental, but at the same time conclusive in their way. They made plain the fact that in the future military operations the flying machine is destined to a great importance, If armies everywhere become subject to destruction by unseen assailants, then the day of armies may speedily pass. —Argonaut.

The story from Sacramento to the effect that Assemblyman J. W. Hamilton had introduced a bill relatively to the sale of brown eggs, making it a misdemeanor for buyers to pay more for white eggs is a joke. No such bill was introduced by Mr. Hamilton or will be The story got into the newspapers as the result of a number of legislators jocularly relating the requests made of them by certain of their consistuents.

The Professor

Once there lived an old Professor—
A very little man—
Who used to write for magazines,
As some Professors can.
He wrote about the "simple life"
And of the "soul serene,"
And still he dwelt midst war and strife
And looked quite sad and lean.
He quite believed that faith could heal,
And thought it very plain,
But as he read he doubled up
Because he had a pain.
At last he got dyspepsia
And a thousand other ills,
So thought he'd write "How nature cures,"
Each day among the hills—
And there alas, how small he felt
Beneath the towering trees,
While sniffing all the odors
That traveled on the breeze.
One day he took a sudden fit,
And threw his books all down,
And wandered aimlessly all day
O'er hillsides burnt and brown;
Saw flowers that he could not name
And heard a wild bird's song,
And wandered till the sun had set
And twilight shades grew long—
And when the night came stealing on
Down at the pasture bars
He forgot about philosophy
And stood and watched the stars.
At last he gained both soul and health
And cried, "now I can teach"
I've learned one truth worth more than wealth,
To practice what I preach."

E. P.

Concerning a "Childless Age"

Professor Wilcox of Cornell University, who figures out that the United States is approaching a childless age—births of children to cease according to his calculation about the year 2020—gives us a curious example of the thinking which passes in some quarters as scientific. Under scrutiny it appears to be akin to that kind of science which determines that because one boy can eat one apple in a minute he can eat five hundred in eight hours and twenty minutes—logical here beyond question, but none the less a kind of logic which doesn't enforce conviction.

The fault of our worthy professor is that he does not consider the potentialities which lie in conditions and motives outside the limits of his calculation. It has been determined in older countries that both the marriage rate and the birth rate bear a direct relation to food prices. When food is dear, relatively fewer marriages and smaller families; when cheap, relatively more marriges and larger families. In times and in countries where children are a help in family or community life, families are large; in times and conditions where families are a hinderance, families are small. For example, in the pioneer era of America a large family was not merely a family social credit, but distinct advantage, and so the average number of children born into families was large. When the condition of living changed, when life on the soil largely gave away to life in towns, the number of births decreased. Today, when children are almost universally an economic burden, the birth rate declines.—Argonaut.

Work Progressing on Rail Road Extension

The work of extending the tracks of the Northwestern Pacific railroad company on to Eureka is progressing satisfactorily. Cars are now running on tracks six miles north of Willits. After completing the bridge across the Outlett creek last week the bridge crew moved to the next bridge site, where a 200 foot span is to be constructed. The concrete piers for all the bridges are completed. The material for the construction of the bridges is now at Willits and the bridge carpenters can rush their work on as fast as they can reach the sites with trains.

The tunnel, No. 13 will be pierced this week. Within another month that tunnel will be ready for tracks. Tunnel No. 13 will be 870 feet long. There are several bridges yet to be built between Willits and tunnel No. 13.

The State Highway

It is proposed to start the new State Highway for this part of the state at Sausalito, and continue thence northward through the counties of Marin Sonoma, Mendocino and Humboldt; and, as we understand it, the idea will be to follow in the foot steps of the El Camino Real. This being the case, it must certainly pass through Sonoma Valley, and should come here in as direct a line from Ignacio as possible. This is another argument in favor of the proposed boulevard which has been planned to extend south from Sonoma through the Kiser, Poppe, Foster and other large ranches between here and Black Point. Mr. Foster has offered to give the county his fine road, and other property owners are making liberal offers of land and rights of-way.

The Railroad Company are contemplating a new bridge across Petaluma creek at Black Point, and an effort is being made by our Chamber of Commerce to get them to agree to the construction of a wagon and automobile road over the same.

The State Highway Commission will have to be reminded of this so that our valley will get its deserved portion of this splended road. This is a time when all Sonoma Valley must get busy in a genuine pull-together spirit for there is a lot at stake, and there are many who in a pull-together effort for their own section, are ready to take it away from us.

Mothers' Meeting

Someone has said that the 20th century is going to be known as the children's century, so thoroughly is the great public mind rousing to the fact that today nothing else is of such vast import to the future welfare of the race as the proper care, training and development of children. And in full belief that the heritage of the youth of Sonoma is equal to that of the children in so many other towns where parents are co-operating with educators in a moment for better understanding the needs and abilities of boys and girls, singly and collectively, therefore last Wednesday a few mothers met at the home of Mrs. G. H. Hotz, and planned for an organization that shall eventually become auxilliary to the National Mothers' Congress.

After an informal talk concerning both general and local conditions, a motion was suggested to hold the next meeting in the High School on Saturday, Feb. 25, at 2:30 p. m. if the permission of the Board of Trustees can be obtained. While this meeting will be public, a special invitation is extended to all mothers and to the teachers and trustees of both the Grammar and High Schools. At this meeting a perminent organization will be effected.

L. S. Duhring, Sec'y pro tem.

Working For a Church

The Rev. Thomas Parker Boyd, rector of the Ascension Church, Vallejo, and Dean of the Convocation, will visit Sonoma on Wednesday, February 1st, to look over the field with the intention of starting an Episcopal Church here.

He wishes to visit and meet all interested in this work and will conduct a service in the evening. The time and place will be advertised by posters later.

In conjunction with he re there will be meetings held at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Clewe on Sunday, Jan. 29th, at 3 p. m.

A very earnest request to attend is extended to all interested, whether members or not.

Wiseman Made Fine Flights

Santa Rosans who attended the aviation meet at Tanforan Park Saturday and Sunday give glowing reports of the nice work that Fred Wiseman did at the meet. On Sunday he made three flights, all of which were pretty ones. He gained a height of 200 feet and each time he was in the air went a couple of times around the course. Mr. Wiseman's machine is heavier than those used by professional aviators, and on that account he does not get the speed out of it that they do. On Sunday he tried to make a flight with a section of his biplane eliminated, with the idea of reducing weight, but this proved to weaken the carrying effect of his planes and he was unable to leave the ground that way.

Stranger Struck By Train and Dies

Charles Miller, a knight of the road, was struck by a freight train Friday night a short distance west of Sonoma, and fatally injured.

It is thought that Miller was lying along the side of the track, as he was not seen by the engineer or fireman and the first knowledge of the accident was when Carlos Emparan came to the station and informed the conductor that they had struck a man. The train crew went back and picked up the mangled body of the man and took him to Green's Sanitarium, where Dr. Thompson and Dr. Hayes gave the man medical attention.

The man's skull was badly battered in where he had been hit, an arm was broken in two places and there were internal injuries about the hips. He recovered consciousness only for a short time. During his lucid moments he gave his name and informed his attendants that he had until recently been employed in Mendocino county and mentioned a son, but the latter's name and address could not be learned. After lying in a stupor until Saturday noon he passed away.

The man, with another, both strangers, was in Sonoma during Friday afternoon in a badly intoxicated condition.

Coroner Blackburn was notified of the accident and death of Miller and Sunday morning he came over to Sonoma and held an inquest. The verdict being—"Met death by being struck by train."

The railroad company was exonerated.

The body of the dead man was intered in Valley Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Burke Case Resumed

Juror George H. Hall was enabled to be present at the opening of the court on Tuesday morning, the members of his family having made such improvement that he felt he could leave them for a time. Juror Hall regretted having caused the delay of the trial on Monday.

At the opening of the court on Tuesday morning Judge Emmet Seawell denied the motion of the defendant to strike out the testimony of Sheriff James Chubbuck and Superintendent B. F. Greenwell of Dr Burke's mine, relative to dynamite secured by Greenwell for Attorney Frank Golden. The latter desired the explosive for experiments.

The court granted a motion to strike out the testimony of Attorney Bolt, of Attorney Wheeler's office in San Francisco, wherein Bolt testified for the prosecution that he had concluded the report of the explosion at La Etta Smith's tent was that of dynamite. His testimony was stricken out because he had not qualified as an expert.

Judge Emmet Seawell ordered the jurymen placed in the custody of Sheriff Jack Smith and his deputies at the adjournment of court Tuesday at noon. This is the usual procedure in such cases, and is simply a precautionary measure. Judge Seawell had intimated his intention of making this order previously, and it did not come as a surprise. Some of the deputies of the sheriff's office will be with the jurymen every moment of the time until the case is submitted to them and they are taken to their apartments in the court house to deliberate on their verdict. The deputies will dine with the jurymen at each meal, and will sleep on a cot just outside the jury room where the men will spend their nights until their verdict is returned.

Assistant District Attorney George W. Hoyle concluded his presentation of the opening argumen for the prosecution in the Burke case Wednesday at noon, and at the afternoon session Attorney William F. Cowan opened the argument for the defense. Attorney J. R. Leppo will follow, concluding the argument for the defense, and the closing argument for the prosecution will be presented by District Attorney Clarence F. Lea.

Attorney William F. Cowan concluded his argument for the defense Thursday afternoon, and was immediately followed by Attorney J. R. Leppo, who presented the closing statement for the defense. District Attorney Clarence F. Lea began his address to the jury this morning, and is to close the argument for the prosecution some time during the afternoon. Judge Seawell's instructions to the jury will follow, and then the only thing left will be a verdict by the trial jurors, who have been listening to and weighing the evidence in the case. It is thought that the final outcome may be known by tomorrow.

The argument is attracting as much attention as did the presentation of the evidence, the court room being crowded at every session.

Woman's Club Notes

Last Friday was social day at the Club, and in addition to two charming songs by Miss Ramona Granice, the ladies were entertained by a paper read by Mrs. Woodworth and containing many valuable thoughts concerning school questions pertinent to our own community.

An entertainment is being planned to pay for planting many new trees along certain streets.

We have a nice library in Glen Ellen, but it is seldom open. It does us about as much good as a jail would it we didn't have anyone to put in it.

Bill Ping is quite worried over Woman's Suffrage. I guess he is afraid the women might get their way at last. He says if they do he will have to sell his mules to buy overalls.

Mrs. C. C. Weise was the victim of a bold robbery one day last week while she was busy in one part of her house a stranger entered and took a gold watch and chain from her jewel case, which was found open. However, the thief made good his escape before the loss was discovered.

THE MADE-TO-ORDER CREAM SEPARATOR

The dairy farmer who buys a 1910 De Laval Cream Separator gets a machine that is really made especially to order for him.

First: Because the 1910 De Laval is designed and constructed, without sacrificing any vital feature, to meet the comments and criticisms gathered from over 1,100,000 dairy farmers to whom De Laval machines have already been sold.

Second: Because if he should offer to pay ten times the ordinary price he couldn't secure a closer skimming, a greater money, time and labor saving, a more durable, a more convenient or an easier running separator than the 1910 De Laval.

Lastly: Because every feature of the 1910 De Laval machine from top to bottom is just as the best mechanical as well as the most practical engineering demands that it should be.

The De Laval is the made-to-order cream separator without the made-to-order price. The De Laval catalogue tells the whole story. Ask for a copy.

The Young Physician.

WHAT HIS EXPERIENCE PROVED.

In the early sixties it was usually the duty of a practicing physician to ride many miles every day on his regular round of visits upon his patients. In those days a young man who had received a splendid medical training in one of the best medical colleges of that day was accustomed to ride ten, twenty, thirty miles or more visiting the sick and afflicted. His success was soon phenomenal. Doctors and families called him for consultation to towns at considerable distances by rail. His specialty was the cure of those common and distressing diseases of women. He had early discovered that by combining the extracts of the following medicinal plants, in just the right proportion, without the use of alcohol his "Prescription" almost invariably cured such cases. Later, in order to place this remedy before the public in a shape easily to be procured, he established a laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., where regularly qualified chemists were put in charge to accurately prepare his "Prescription" and put it in shape for shipment to all parts of the world. This remedy, which he named Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a "patent medicine" but a tonic and nervine for women, and a regular physician's prescription, and contains the following ingredients: Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Golden Seal root, and chemically pure glycerine.

Dr. Pierce does not claim for his "Favorite Prescription" that it is a "cure-all." It is recommended as a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments. So uniform are the results which follow the use of this remarkable remedy, that it can be truly affirmed of "Favorite Prescription" that it always helps and almost always cures. Ninety-eight per cent. of the women who give this medicine a fair and faithful trial are cured and remain cured.

It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the womb and its appendages. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down" or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving power.

THE PROOF.

"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health, since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mrs. H. S. Jones, of Forest, N. C. "When I began its use I was a physical wreck and had despaired of ever having good health again. Could not sit up all day. I noted a great improvement before the first bottle was all used. Was suffering with almost every pain that a woman is subject to; had inflammation of the ovaries, painful and suppressed periods, and other symptoms of female disease. After taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' I felt like a new person. Can ride horseback and take all kinds of exercise and not feel tired."

Only one or two of these tiny, sugar-coated Pellets will regulate, tone up and set in healthy, vigorous action a foul stomach, torpid liver and sluggish bowels. Little Pill, little dose; produce great results. First put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equaled.

Send 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing and get a copy of the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," over 1000 pages. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Her Evidence.

"I had a colored woman before me as a complaining witness," said a criminal court judge. "She had a man held for trial by a city magistrate on the charge that he had attacked her with a pair of scissors. 'He mout' near gouge mah eye out, jedge,' she said to me. 'Jes' come at me lak a lion, he did, a-roarin', suh. He poke me in de face wiv dem scissors, jedge, not once, but for four or five times. He jes' cut up my face lak it was a yahd of ribbon, jedge. The magistrate what held him to dis heah court says he nevah did hear tell of no more dang'ous man.'

"Well, I looked her over. She had a wide, smooth, yellow face that didn't have a mark on it. I told her to repeat her story, and she went all over it again, telling how the man had slashed her face with that pair of scissors.

"But, madam,' I said, 'there isn't a mark on your face.'

"'Marks!' said she indignantly. 'Marks! What I care for marks, lem me ask you dat? I got witnesses, I tell you.'"—New York Cor. Cincinnati Times-Star.

She Had Courage.

A self possessed young woman who knew no French strolled into one of the larger downtown cafes. She spoke to the waiter in that decisive tone which distinguishes the initiated and glanced over the French bill of fare with the nonchalant air of a Parisienne.

"I'll have," she began firmly as she plunged into the sea of French dishes—"I'll have—let me see. Oh, yes, I'll have some bisque tortoni, a sultana roll, pommes de terre and a little of that fromage. And, garcon, you might as well bring me a cup of coffee."

The waiter gasped. He started to speak, but the young woman froze him with one of those icy stares peculiar to the thoroughly sophisticated.

And the order arrived—two kinds of ices, boiled potatoes and a piece of cheese. But she ate it as if she had been used to that sort of diet all her life.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stories on Doctors.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle told several good stories of old fashioned practitioners he knew. There was one man, he said, who never used to wash out the half emptied bottles returned to him, but emptied them into one huge jar, from which he dispensed this mixture of medicines to his more obscure patients. "It is like grapeshot," he said; "one of them is sure to hit." There was another man who used to say, "When my patients are alive I don't know what is the matter with them and when they die I don't know whether they are dead." That was like the medical man who said to a lady whose husband he had been attending, "Madam, I have a very strong belief that your husband is dead, but if it is your wish I have no objection to a consultation."

Cute Little Girl.

One day while Katherine's mother was ill a cup of beef tea was prepared for her, but Katherine fancied it and drank almost all of it. Her father was about to scold her when her mother said:

"Never mind; it does me just as much good to see her drink it."

Shortly after this a dose of castor oil was prepared for Katherine, and she poured it into her doll's mouth.

"Why Katherine," said her astonished mother, "what did you do that for?"

"That's all right," Katherine replied, "it will do me just as much good if she drinks it."—Boston Herald.

The Danger of Criticism.

If you simply cannot help criticising at least be careful in selecting your victim.

A magazine editor to whom O. Henry had promised a story many times without delivering it sat down one day and wrote him thus:

"My Dear O. Henry—If I do not receive that story from you by noon today I am going to put on my No. 11 shoes and come down and kick you down your own stairs. I never fail to keep my promises."

Whereupon O Henry replied:

"I, too, would keep my promises if I could do all my work with my feet."—Chicago Tribune.

The Battle of a Week.

The battle of a week was the great conflict at Tours in which Charles Martel overthrew the Saracens, A. D. 732. The members of the Saracen army are variously estimated at from 400,000 to 700,000, and the historians say that 375,000 were killed on the field. It is suspected that these figures are a gross exaggeration, but it is certain that few battles of history have been either so bloody or so decisive.

In the Mining Business.

"I think you said, Rastus, that you had a brother in the mining business in the west?"

"Yeh, boss, that's right."

"What kind of mining—gold mining, silver mining, copper mining?"

"No, sah, none o' those; calcimining."—Everybody's.

The Angel.

Wife—I am trimming up last year's hat to save the cost of a new one! Hubby—How good of you! You're a perfect little angel! Wife—Am I? Then give me $10 to buy wings.

His Impression.

Mrs. Knicker—Now, will you remember everything, John? Knicker—Yep. I'm to turn the flowers out at night and sprinkle the cat.—Harper's Bazar.

A Reliable Cough Remedy

Is a valuable family friend Foley's Honey and Tar fulfills this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, N 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottl in the house. It sooths and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." L. S. Simmons.

BREVITIES

A dentist of Japan extracts teeth with his fingers without the aid of any instruments. He takes the head of the patient in such a way that the mouth must remain open. Putting the thumb and the index finger into the patient's mouth, the Jap draws five, six or seven teeth in a minute, as the case may be, the patient during the process being unable to close his mouth.

One on the Judge.

The lawyer for the prosecution had finished his closing argument, and the judge, a pompous and long winded individual, was charging the jury.

He was in the midst of an unusually long and tedious address when he suddenly noticed that one of the jurymen had fallen fast asleep. The indignation of his honor was boundless. Rapping sharply on his desk, he awakened the slumberer, who seemed not at all abashed at being thus caught napping. After glaring at him angrily for a few moments the magistrate in his most sarcastic tone said:

"So that's the way you attend to your duty, is it? You're a fine specimen to have on a jury. Do you think your opinion will be of any value when I send you out to determine the fate of this prisoner?"

"Yes, sir," said the juryman quietly; "I think so."

"Oh, you do, do you?" shouted the exasperated judge. "Pray tell me, sir, how long you have been sleeping?"

"I don't know, your honor," was the reply. "How long have you been talking?"—New York Herald.

When Silence Is Deadly.

Silence is commonly the slow poison used by those who mean to murder love. There is nothing violent about it. No shock is given. Hope is not abruptly strangled, but merely dreams of evil and fights with gradually stifling shadows. When the last convulsions come they are not terrific. The frame has been weakened for dissolution. Love dies like natural decay. It seems the kindest way of doing a cruel thing.—George Meredith.
